

CONGRESS WILL NOT REPAIR ROAD

Congressman Fitzgerald Thinks Arizona Should Do Own Road Work.

Phoenix, Ariz., Feb. 25.—No appropriation is to be made by congress for the repair of the Roosevelt road, which was badly damaged by recent floods.

Congress was asked for $20,000 to repair the road, but John J. Fitzgerald, chairman of the house committee on appropriations, has written congressman Carl Hayden that to do so would be to set an unwise precedent.

There are other highways. "If this were the only scenic highway in the United States we might with safety appropriate money for its repair, but there are many such roads through the mountains and forests in various parts of the United States," wrote Mr. Fitzgerald. "If we repair one of them by an appropriation from the treasury we will be asked to care for them all. This committee cannot establish such a precedent."

Four constituents seem to be of the opinion that merely because the Roosevelt road was constructed by the government congress is bound to maintain it perpetually. They forget that its construction was but an incident in the work on the entire Salt River reclamation project and that its usefulness to the government has now ended.

YUAN LAMENTS OF WORTHINESS

China's Ruler Says "Lack of Virtue" Has Caused Him Some Opposition.

Peking, China, Feb. 25.—In one of the most remarkable addresses ever delivered by a ruler over a nation, Yuan Shi Kai has proclaimed his unworthiness to become emperor of China, declaring his rebellion in Yunnan province and in forming his followers his coronation—partly because of the state of the treasury—must be deferred until the "safefair in Yunnan are again under control."

In an impassioned speech delivered to the officials of the bureau entrusted with the preparation for the enthronement, the president made an explanation of the delay in the date of enthronement as announced to the foreign legations on Jan. 21. Yuan Shi Kai's dramatic address was communicated to officials in all the provinces, in explanation of the failure to carry out the ceremony so eagerly desired by these in harmony with the administration.

Yuan is grieved. Translations of the address of Yuan Shi Kai differ somewhat, although the translations all credit the president with the same lament concerning his own unworthiness. The following is a somewhat literal translation of Yuan Shi Kai's speech.

"As the province of Yunnan is now opposing the central government, and under some pretext, a rebellion has been raised in those regions causing hardships to the soldiers and suffering to the people, we wish in receiving you in audience because owing to our lack of virtue, we are unable to win the hearts of all the people, which in effect means that we are unable to win the will of heaven."

"We are profoundly grieved to confess that a portion of the people are dissatisfied with the performance of the emperor of the nation as this juncture would, therefore, set our hearts on fire."

Furthermore, we must remember that the national expenditure will be greatly increased for the purpose of defending the expenses of a military campaign. It will therefore be impossible to perform the grand ceremony at the same time, as the expenses in this connection, including special rewards, gifts and exemptions, will be enormous. It has been decided to attend to the more important of the two matters, and the enthronement will have to be postponed to a date when the affairs in Yunnan are again under control."

WAR MAY SOLVE
FOOD PROBLEMS

Through the Blockade Napoleon Evolved Canning and Beet Sugar Industries.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 25.—War always brings food questions to the front, investing the latter with political and strategic dignity seldom admitted in times of peace when there is sufficient reason to believe that the proper routine of life, and some of the most important stimuli toward the increased production and better conservation of foods have been born of the stress of war necessities.

The canning industries have become such an all important feature of our modern existence that it is almost impossible to imagine a time when their innumerable products were not, and yet, in a special train which will also carry one of the most important of the world's foodstuffs, the beet sugar industry, into being as one of the imperative elements of our modern life.

The present war gives evidence of bringing in its train of horrors and desolations the entire world toward the progressive solution of feeding all the peoples of the earth. Some of these peculiar reactions of the cannon, the rifle and the sword in the hands of the kitchen are given in the National Geographic society's bulletin as follows:

France's Problem 100 Years Ago. "If we go back one hundred years it will be discovered that France was facing the same problem today. England's fleet blockaded France's ports, then just as today, and over sea foodstuffs had little chance to reach the French."

"How far this went, and how great an effect it had on conditions in Napoleon's empire, is revealed by the fact that sugar sold for two dollars a pound. And that the world is not sugar hungry today is due to the steps taken by Napoleon to overcome the effect of the blockade on sugar. For years before Napoleon's scientists had been trying to set sugar from the beet, and under the patronage of the king of Prussia, Frederick William III, succeeded in their task."

Napoleon Makes Beet Sugar. "Napoleon's brilliant chemist set up beet sugar factories around Lille, and gave to the beet sugar industry that impetus which resulted in its development to a point where it yields half of the world's supply of sugar."

"The Little Corporal saw himself seriously embarrassed in the matter of food supplies for his army. He wanted something for his men besides bread that was dried and smoked—a desire that was enhanced by his knowledge that millions of dollars in valuable but perishable foods were wasted because of the lack of adequate means of preserving them."

Evolved Canning Method. "It is therefore not surprising that twelve thousand francs to any one who would devise a practicable method of preserving such foodstuffs. Such a method was quickly evolved by one of his army's engineers."

It is not improbable that the present war will bring to mankind new methods in the feeding of the race that will prove as important as those brought out by Napoleon.

Germans Produce Protein. "It has been announced lately that the Germans have devised a new method of producing protein. It is said that they feed yeast with a combination of sugar and nitrogen from the air, and thus secure that most important of all elements that enter into the world's diet—protein. Examples of protein are the whites of eggs, the muscles of meats, the casin of milk, the gluten of flour and the nitrogenous fats."

"It may also happen that as a result of the war will come the utilization of other plant products than those now entering into directly such as human food. There are approximately half a million species of plants in the world, yet only a few thousand of them are used at all for food, while only a few hundred of these are used to any important extent."

Bandit on Roller Skates
Robs Woman and Rolls
Away Before the Alarm

Orange, Texas, Feb. 25.—Bandit on roller skates is a new form of outlawery which Orange is able to offer now as a novelty.

Mrs. Leaside Wilson, of Fullerton, La., stopped over in Orange between trains. She was on Pine street, with her baby in her arms and her purse in her hand, when a man on roller skates ran past, grabbed the purse from Mrs. Wilson's hand and before she could give the alarm he had skated out of sight around a corner.

Mrs. Wilson was left penniless among strangers and charitable people of Orange raised a fund to enable her to proceed on her journey without having to wait to hear from relatives. The roller skating bandit was not caught.

JURY SAYS SMITHLINE RECEIVED NO WARNING

Phoenix, Ariz., Feb. 25.—Railroad employees of the Santa Fe Railroad company were responsible for the accident in the local yards that resulted in the death of Frank Smithline, a prominent brick manufacturer, was indicated by the coroner's jury in its verdict.

The verdict says that the death of Smithline "was the result of being struck and run over by a draft of eight cars running without a brakeman on the cars and without any sound of warning being given."

Fraternalism, The Home of Good

What Is Accomplished When Men Band Together for Good; Speech by Geo. E. Wallace, of El Paso, at Cornerstone Laying of Douglas Lodge of Elks.

THE occasion of this gathering, my brothers, is a very happy one. When I realize the objects of your efforts, its far reaching and potent effects, the good that will be accomplished when the home is completed. The degree of happiness achieved by our home and lodge rests with you. The opportunity is yours.

There is a time, perhaps many times, in the life of every man when he is permitted to do some good for his fellow man—a time when, by the exercise of a small amount of energy, of his own volition, he can do much for the betterment of a small amount of money, he is able to render a service that will gladden hearts, relieve suffering, or lead some one to a better way of life. It is the path of peace, happiness and contentment. When one man alone can do this, a community of men with thousands of hands and eyes, feeling and seeing into all the dark and desolate places, can accomplish wonders. This is why the churches, clubs and other organizations have grown in numbers and influence until they are today the controlling influence of American life. It is the path of peace, happiness and contentment. When one man alone can do this, a community of men with thousands of hands and eyes, feeling and seeing into all the dark and desolate places, can accomplish wonders. This is why the churches, clubs and other organizations have grown in numbers and influence until they are today the controlling influence of American life.

March of Progress. With steady step in the march of advancement, you have laid the cornerstone of a temple to be dedicated to the goddess of love, the goddess of country, and obedience to God. It has for its foundation the indestructible principles of our order: "Charity, Justice, Brotherly Love and Fidelity." There will also be written in this temple the motto of our order: "The faults of our brothers we write upon the sand and their virtues upon the tablets of love and memory." The rains may descend, the floods come and the winds blow and bear away its foundation and it will not fail. It is founded upon a rock, the rock of charity and love. Such a temple, with such a foundation, will stand as a beacon light to posterity and its work will only be finished when on the last great day God shall say the end has come.
